A few notes regarding the above tables:

1. Each row represents an officially supported cross-product combination
2. Product patches for each of the products are also supported as long as they are part of the same release that has been officially tested
3. For the above product releases (or patches within the releases), other platforms are also supported as long as they are supported by the individual product's support policy
   a. Actian Vector's individual platform support list can be found at http://downloads.actian.com/media/PDFs/Product_Avail_Matrix_Vector.pdf
   b. Actian Director's individual platform support list is published per release as can be found by clicking on the Director version in the table above
